Market Dynamics

The growing preference for biodegradable and sustainable packaging is primarily driving the market growth. Increasing awareness regarding the negative impact of packaging solutions on the environment, due to the use of plastic and other such non-biodegradable products among the consumers is again accelerating the market growth. However, the hike in the price of kraft paper, and ongoing efforts to tackle deforestation is likely to hamper the market growth. Whereas, it provide excellent and lightweight product packaging, eco-friendly, easy to stack, easy to dispose of, and easy to transport are some of the factors which are expected to create potential demand over the forecast period.
